

PANORAMA of EDUCATIONAL THOUGHTS

An Old Educator's Views on Adventist Education
April 2010

Free Books

Teachers are always looking for money to have more reading material in their classroom. Now you can download material FREE on the computer.

Times Reader—The New York Times Reader puts a newspaper format on your computer. You'll get full access to front-page stories. You'll have to click through to the New York Times Web site, but it's not that bad.

<http://timesreader.nytimes.com/timesreader/index.html>

NetBook—Want entire library on your computer? I mean more than 30,000 books on tap for free. Project Gutenberg is a massive catalogue of public domain books. And all of them can be accessed online. Digging through them online may not be as easy as you'd like. NetBook is a handy solution. You can search all of Project Gutenberg. Then, click on any book to open it. You won't find the latest bestsellers. But there is a wealth of classics worth checking out. www.adobe.com/cfusion/marketplace/index.cfm?

LibraryThing—Reading a book doesn't have to be a solitary experience. LibraryThing is a social network for book lovers. First, you catalogue the books you love and own. Then you are matched with other users with similar tastes. You'll get book recommendations and join a lively discussion about what you're reading.

www.librarything.com

Feedbooks—Feedbooks is a great source for public domain books. You'll find amazing works from the likes of Shakespeare, Twain and many more. Read them on the computer or load them on an e-book reader.

www.feedbooks.com/publicdomain

Sigil—E-books can be a great way to read. They're a lot more portable than a regular book. It's a really handy format. This program lets you create your own files in e-book formats. You could write your own book and distribute it online. You can also create personal notes and documents you can carry on an e-book reader or simply use it to open and read e-books you've downloaded. <http://code.google.com/p/sigil>

Instapaper—It's tough to even read everything on your favorite sites. It would be handy to save things that look interesting for later. Instapaper makes this easy. Save a link to any article with the touch of a button. It will be saved to your free online account. Then you can come back at your leisure not miss out on your favorite reading. www.instapaper.com

Wikibooks is a community for creating a free library of educational textbooks that anyone can edit. Wikibooks began on July 10, 2003, and has grown to include over 35,821 pages in a multitude of textbooks created by volunteers. http://en.wikibooks.org/wiki/Main_Page Pathfinder Honors There are 366 honors that have been approved at or above the Division level. These are presented in nine honor categories. This can be a GREAT help to you.

http://en.wikibooks.org/wiki/Adventist_Youth_Honors_Answer_Book

Want to check your students work for originality? Did they copy part of it? www.copyscape.com

END OF THE MARCH NEWSLETTER

That is enough for the March PET newsletter. I hope you found information you wanted to read, download, and/or use.

If you have any questions, comments, or complaints, send them to: vaughn.jennings@yahoo.com

You will find back issues of PET newsletters at <http://circle.adventist.org>

Additional information can be found on the PET Blog: <http://vaughnjennings.wordpress.com>

May you continue to realize the blessings God has for you as you minister to His kids,

(CLICK ON ANY UNDERLINED PARTS OF THIS NEWSLETTER. THEY ARE LIVE LINKS.)

Vaughn

